Colorado's Historical Assets: A Research Guide for Genealogists, Local Historians and History Buffs Containing a Treasure Trove of Museums, Ghost Towns, Courthouses, Historic Homes and Hotels, along with the Libraries and Archives Holding Colorado's History

ISBN 978-1-68224-044-1      $35.00 + $5.00 S&H

This workbook is intended to help facilitate your locations-based research in the United States. Use the maps to see which counties you are researching at-a-glance. Then use the research notes pages to create a workable research plan. Take this handy workbook with you when you research as a reminder that county boundaries have changed over time. Even if your ancestors stayed in the same place, the county boundaries may have changed around them. Each state includes a list of all of the modern counties with their formation dates, the counties each was formed from, and the counties that were created from them. Often it is not a matter of whether there are records for your family, but discovering where they exist. This workbook is an invaluable tool for genealogists who wish to take the next step in their research.

Boulder County School Census Series

During the 19th Century, Boulder County, Colorado had 59 school districts, mostly because of the geography of the area. The following books contain the names of more than XXXX students, administrators and parents. These school district census records are valuable genealogical and historical research tools in that they help to establish people in place and time, and establish relationships between children, their parents and their siblings during a critical period when the 1890 census for Colorado does not exist. Males and females were recorded separately, but not always. Names are generally alphabetical. The children are listed by name, followed by their age. The adults are listed by name, followed by their titles in the case of school district employees, or by their relationship to the students—parent, guardian or spouse. In some years, the place where the student was living was included. Towns or sections were included, although full addresses were not. The census is listed as it was written to help maintain hints to relationships where they are not explicitly given. There is an alphabetical index after the census listings.

Digging Up Dirt is an in-depth journey that takes you into the lives of over 290 inhabitants of the Gold Hill Cemetery in Gold Hill (Boulder County) Colorado. From the earliest tombstone in 1875 to the latest death in February 2019, the beloved graves (known and unknown) that lie in peaceful tranquility within the gates of this 153 year-old cemetery. Historical facts, early documented records, ancestral information, extensive genealogy and articles from the earliest newspapers available create an unforgettable adventure highlighting the author's awesome respect for these dearly departed.

Boulder County, Colorado Probate Case Files Index: 1862–1978

ISBN 978-1-68224-112-7 $49.95 + $6.00 S&H

The Boulder County, Colorado Probate Case Files Index: 1862–1978 is an index to the physical estate case files located at the Colorado State Archives. There are almost 20,000 estate case files listed in this index thanks to the work of staff at the Colorado State Archives and a tireless group of volunteers.

Boulder County, Colorado Lodged Wills and Inheritance Tax Waivers, 1899-1975: An Annotated Index

ISBN 978-1-68224-109-7 $11.95 + $4.00 S&H

People often filed their wills with lawyers, banks or the court long before they died. They often contained information about heirs and property that can be important to genealogical research. Inheritance Tax Waivers were often sought when an estate was so small, or when circumstances were such that in order to pay the taxes, the family would have to sell the farm or home. The information in these waivers often contained the same information as that found in lodged wills.

Boulder County School Census 1877: An Annotated Index

ISBN 978-1-68224-036-6 $15.95 + $4.00 S&H

The Boulder County, Colorado School Census 1877 is an annotated index of the census taken to confirm the number of people eligible to attend school in Boulder County. Students were eligible from age 5 to 25. The diary is alphabetical, but there are no page numbers, so the pages have been given numbers starting with 1 with each new letter in the journal (e.g. A1, A2, A3, etc.). There is more than one handwriting in the journal, which may account for why some districts have the sex of the student recorded, and others do not. Having the sex recorded answers some questions. For example, Bertie and Willie are common names during this time period and are used for males or females. One of the most interesting finds is the number of married women recorded in the census.

Boulder County, Colorado, District Court, Petit Jury Lists, 1883-1910: An Annotated Index

ISBN 978-1-68224-035-9 $11.95 + $4.00 S&H

The Boulder County, Colorado District Court, Petit Jury Lists, 1883–1910 is an annotated index of the District Court's call for men to serve mostly as petit jurors. There are a few entries for Grand Jurors or Talesmen, essentially an alternate who was available if there were an insufficient number of jurors. There are more than 4,000 entries in this volume. The lists were most likely kept by the Clerk of the District Court, although the clerks are not named anywhere in the volume. Often the record gives the dates that a juror served during the court's term. It is rare for jurors to serve throughout a term. Most jurors served a few days. Some records indicate what the juror was paid for his service. Many records indicate that a juror was "excused for the term," which did not necessarily mean that the person did not serve at all, only that they did not serve for the entire six month term.

Boulder County, Colorado District Court, Petit Jury Records, 1867-1936: An Annotated Index

ISBN 978-1-68224-031-1 $24.95 + $5.00 S&H

The Boulder County, Colorado District Court, Petit Jury Records, 1867-1936 is an annotated index of the District Court's call for men to serve as petit jurors mostly for trials, but occasionally for coroner's inquests. There are more than 20,000 entries during this time period. Often the record gives the place where the juror lives and the miles from his home to the courthouse. Many records indicate that a potential juror was "not a resident," which could mean that the person lived outside of the county (even just across the county line), or that the person was away from home, had moved to a new location within the county or had moved from the area. Some records give specific details as to why the juror cannot be located or cannot serve.

Boulder County, Colorado District Court, Grand Jury Records, 1867-1922: An Annotated Index

ISBN 978-1-68224-032-8 $11.95 + $4.00 S&H

The Boulder County, Colorado District Court, Grand Jury Records, 1867-1922 is an annotated index of the records of District Court requesting men for service as grand jurors. Grand Jurors were summoned to examine cases in order to issue indictments but they were also used to examine public financial records and the safety of public buildings. Several special cases are found in this record set, including those investigating "considerable lawlessness especially in the illicit traffic of liquor and gambling" and the Grand Jury statements of May Bradford Oles who was the adopted daughter of Andrew J Macky (a prominent Boulder citizen) and her attempt to claim a part of his large estate.

Boulder County Clerk & Recorder, Loose Papers Volume 1, 1861-1878: An Annotated Index

ISBN 978-1-68224-029-8 $21.95 + $5.00 S&H

This box of the County Clerk's loose papers contains election returns, poll books, oaths of office, tax rebates, protests on assessments, license fees, and fees paid to ordinary citizens for serving on juries, overseeing roads or appearing as witnesses. There are several file folders containing maps, County Attorney opinions, Game and Fish Commissioner correspondence, and County Agricultural Agent files from the period 1902-1918 that are not included because they do not fit the scope or time period of the other material in this box.

Boulder County Clerk & Recorder, Loose Papers Volume 2, 1861-1878: An Annotated Index

ISBN 978-1-68224-028-1      $21.95 + $5.00 S&H

This box of the County Clerk's loose papers contain road petitions, and bills allowed (paid) for everything from the Coroner, to the County Physician, to the Courts. There are an incredible number of names of ordinary citizens who served on juries, gave witness testimony, performed work on behalf of the county, or signed a petition for a new road. There are two files from 1906 and 1907, a Coroner's Inquest report and a report from a Probation Officer that are not included in this index, because they do not fit the time period of the rest of the material.

Boulder County, Colorado Surveys and Mineral Claims at the General Land Office, 1859-1876: An Annotated Index

ISBN 978-1-68224-030-4      $15.95 + $4.00 S&H

The Boulder County, Colorado Surveys and Mineral Claims at the General Land Office, 1859-1876: An Annotated Index contains the names of the mine owners (claimant), surveyors and survey crew members, along with the mines and their range and township information. One additional piece of information was added when found—cabins, houses, barns, buildings, bridges, boarding houses, mills, toll roads, wagon roads, creeks and rivers. Using those listings is one way to see what was built where during these early mining days.

Boulder County, Colorado District Court Judge's Docket, Vol 1, 1867-1872: An Annotated Index

ISBN 978-1-68224-026-7      $15.95 + $4.00 S&H

Boulder did not have a courthouse until 1867 and many of the cases that occurred before that time were sent to Golden in Jefferson County or Denver in Arapahoe County. After the courthouse was built, many of those cases were returned to Boulder. The docket lists the plaintiffs and defendants, often lists which attorneys represented which side in the case, gives the docket number in the Grand Docket (once that numbering system began), and has the judge's notes for how the case proceeded or the verdict, where appropriate.

Boulder County, Colorado Territory, First District Court Record, 1862-1866: An Annotated Transcription

ISBN 978-1-68224-024-3      $11.95 + $4.00 S&H

The Boulder County, Colorado Territory District Court Record, June 1862–March 1866 is the first known court record for Boulder County. Many of the early cases were presided over by Stephen Selwyn Harding who was the Governor of the Utah Territory prior to becoming the Chief Justice of the Colorado Territorial Supreme Court. The record includes much of the work of the early court including calling petit and grand jurors, hearing civil and criminal cases as well as deciding who was qualified to act as an attorney in court.

Boulder County, Colorado Treasurer, Register of Accounts, 1867-1880: An Annotated Index

ISBN 978-1-68224-023-6      $19.95 + $5.00 S&H

The Boulder County, Colorado Treasurer, Register of Accounts, 1867-1880: records the fees paid to individuals who performed work for the county such as Commissioner's fees, road work, witness or jury fees, providing coal for the courthouse or taking care of paupers. Each claim lists the date, the nature of the work performed, the amount of the claim, when it was allowed, how much of the claim was allowed and the number of the warrant issued to pay the claimant.

Boulder County, Colorado County Court Index Book I, Plaintiffs and Defendants: An Annotated Index

ISBN 978-1-68224-021-2      $34.95 + $5.00 S&H

This index covers the cases that took place in the Boulder, Colorado County Court. The years covered by the index are uncertain as no dates are given in the book, although based upon the case numbers, the years are most likely to be in the 1870s and 1880s. Both civil and criminal cases are listed. The first section of this book is a re-creation of the Plaintiffs' section in the order that entries appear in the original ledger. The second section is the Defendants' section following the same convention. The final section is an alphabetical list of every name that appears in the index, including those additional plaintiffs and defendants who are named, but whose names appear on the alphabetical page according to the first plaintiff's or the first defendant's last name, not their own.

These record books give the name of the claimant(s) and describe each claim in terms of its relationship to other local claims, and give the direction and number of rods outlining the claim.

Boulder City Town Company Lot Sales 1859-1864: An Annotated Map Guide

ISBN 978-1-879579-87-3                      $15.95 + $4.00 S&H

The original records of the Boulder City Town Company show the initial land lottery of 11 Aug 1859 along with the sale and transfer of different lots beginning just after the town's beginning on 10 Feb 1859 until 1864. This map index details the land sales and shows each lot sold or transferred. Because no original survey map of Boulder City exists, a map was created using the plat map of 1864, an 1868 map that shows a partial view of downtown, and the 1871 and 1887 maps that use the old numbering system from the original survey. None of the extant maps shows the entire original survey, but the blocks and block numbers of the created map are almost exactly the same. The two exceptions are an unnumbered block where the courthouse stands currently (between 13th and 14th Streets, and Pearl and Spruce Streets), and an unnumbered block between 16th and 17th Streets, and Hill [now Mapleton] and Bluff Streets. I believe these two lots were intended to be left unnumbered and used as public squares—one for the courthouse, the other for a school, perhaps. This book shows each land sale along with a mini-view of the block in question with the street names along all four sides of the block for reference. (The maps referenced in this guide are below in paper and mylar).

Brainard's Hotel Register, Boulder, Colorado, 1880: An Annotated Index

ISBN 978-1-879579-86-6

$15.95 + $4.00 S&H

This index of the hotel's register gives the names of hotel guests, their residence, the date of their stay, the meal service and what room number they were given. About half of the guests are local people visiting Boulder from the smaller communities around the county. Each guest register page is separated by a blotter page with advertisements for businesses. Some of the more notable events are the P.T. Barnum's Show stay on August 1st to 3rd, and the hotel's reception given to former President Ulysses S. Grant and his wife on August 21st, where more than one hundred guests were treated to a ten course dinner, cocktails and desserts while being entertained by the Cremona Park Brass Band of Denver. Some of the more notable signatures in the register are those of Philadelphia financier Charles Yerkes, businessmen Herman and Charles Boettcher, and Colorado Governor John L. Routt.

Boulder County, Colorado Probate Court Fee Book, 1874-1890: An Annotated Index

ISBN 978-1-879579-88-0

$11.95 + $4.00 S&H

The Boulder County, Colorado Probate Court Fee Book, 1874-1890 records the fees paid to and by the estates of the probate cases listed in the book. The records show the names of the deceased and the administrators or executors of the estate along with the judges and clerks who recorded each transaction. Oftentimes, guardians were assigned to children under the age of 14 even if a parent was still living to ensure that any inheritance was protected and preserved for the child. Minors over the age of 14 had the right to request their own guardian. The journal also shows the names of debtors who owed an estate money, and the creditors who were paid by the estate.

Boulder County, Colorado, District Court Guardians Bonds, Vol. A, 1876-1902: An Annotated Index

ISBN 978-1-879579-78-1

$11.95 + $4.00 S&H

The Boulder County, Colorado, District Court Guardians Bonds, Vol. A, 1876-1902 is a District Court record of the men and women who posted bonds in their roles as guardians for children who were due an inheritance. Often a surviving parent would petition to act as the guardian of their own children, but sometimes guardians were assigned by the court if the child was under the age of 14. Minors over the age of 14 were allowed to choose their own guardians during this period. The journal names the deceased, often details the relationships between the deceased and his or her heirs, frequently gives the ages of the children at the time of the bond hearing and occasionally gives the child's exact birthdate. The journal also names the guardians, the sureties, the judges who heard the cases, and the clerks who recorded the bonds.

Boulder, Colorado Teachers, 1878-1900: An Annotated Index

ISBN 978-1-879579-93-4

$11.95 + $4.00 S&H

This index has been compiled from the Annual Reports to the Superintendent of Public Instruction for the years 1878-1900. Each listing shows the name of the teacher, the date the report was submitted (usually the first day of the school year), the archives location for the Annual Report from which the listing was taken, and the school district the teacher taught in. A few teachers taught in more than one school district in the same year. The introduction lists the 66 school districts in Boulder County prior to 1900, and gives details about what the Annual Reports include such as whether each school house was made of log, sod, adobe, frame or brick, what textbooks were used during the school year, and what kind of census of students was taken each year.

Boulder County Commissioners Journal, 1861-1871: An Annotated Transcription

ISBN 13 978-1-879579-77-4

$45.99 + $5.00 S&H

Boulder County was one of the original 17 counties established when Colorado became a territory on 14 February 1861. The Boulder County Commissioners Journal, 1861-1871, chronicles the building of the county and the people who helped build it. During that time, citizens in Boulder built new roads, a jail and a courthouse, paid for the care and keep of paupers, and maintained law and order. All the while, the County Commissioners hired and paid for work on behalf of the county, chose grand and petit jurors, appointed road viewers and overseers, and took applications for business licenses. Includes an index to the original journal as well as an index to this modern version.

Boulder, Colorado Births 1892-1906: An Annotated Index

ISBN 978-1-879579-79-8      $11.95 + $4.00 S&H

This index has been compiled from the original birth records filled out by physicians after a birth and turned in to the County Clerk. They were then recorded in the Birth Records Book, Volume 2, for Boulder County. Often the forms were not turned in until months after the birth. Based upon the form numbers recorded, there are many missing certificates for this time period.

There are many different types of forms in the records so the information available for each individual can be quite different. The more complete forms include the following information: the record number, the child's name, the child's color, the child's sex, whether the child was born alive or not, the place where the child was born, the hour and date, the father's name and occupation, the mother's maiden name, where the parents lived at the time of the birth (often different than where the birth took place), the names of the other children (sometimes just the number of siblings), notes about any additional circumstances (including information about the death of the child or the death of one of the parents), the physician who attended the birth, where the physician resided, the date the form was filled out (or returned to the clerk) and the page and volume number where the birth was recorded.

Occasionally, you will find other people named if there are accounts owed or notes outstanding.

Boulder County Assessor's Tax List, 1875: An Annotated Index

ISBN 978-1-879579-55-2      $11.95 + $4.00 S&H

In 1875, the tax records record either the residence (address) of the property in town lots and blocks or the legal description (section, township and range) and number of acres the property holds. It gives a valuation of the property and of the improvements. It makes an assessment of the capital investment in merchandise and manufacturing, how much is held in money and credits, shares and stocks. It notes household property, jewelry, gold and silver, the number and value of: clocks and watches, musical instruments, carriages and vehicles, horses, mules, cattle, sheep and other animals. It sums up by giving a valuation of all other property, and a total valuation. It lists how many polls (men able to vote), and remarks. Looking at the tax assessment role will give you a pretty good indication of how these people lived and worked.

Cemeteries and Remote Burials in Larimer County, Colorado provides the location, description, and history of the 158 graves, cemeteries, and memorials that Duane and Susan Kniebes found in Larimer County between 1999 and 2013 along with information on how they learned about and then found each location. In many cases, the chapters also include genealogy information on the individuals buried or memorialized at each site and/or on the historical owners of the property containing the site. A number of the burial sites are located on some of Larimer County's most historic ranches and farms. The book also contains brief information on 43 additional graves, cemeteries, or memorials that Duane and Susan learned about but were not able to find. Volume I covers northern Larimer County from the Cache la Poudre River north to Wyoming, including the Laramie River Valley and the town of Livermore. Volume II covers Larimer County south of the Cache la Poudre, including the towns of Berthoud, Fort Collins, and Loveland. Volume III covers the Estes Park area and Rocky Mountain National Park, including the part of the Park in Grand County.

Colorado Territorial Penitentiary, Board of Managers Reports, 1871-1877: An Annotated Index of Marshals, Wardens, Guards, Board Members, Prisoners, and Local Businesses

ISBN 978-1-68224-39-7      $11.95 + $4.00 S&H

The Colorado Territorial Penitentiary, Board of Managers Reports, 1871-1877: An Annotated Index of Marshals, Wardens, Guards, Board Members, Prisoners, and Local Businesses contains the names of the penitentiary's first one hundred prisoners (including escapees), a physical description of the person, why they were in the penitentiary, which county sentenced them and where they were born. In addition, the Board of Managers Reports included the services provided to the prison by local businesses, the names of each member of the Board, along with the names of US Marshals, wardens, guards, nurses and other personnel. An inventory dated 1 Dec 1874 shows a prison (40'x70'), a guard's apartment, a guard's dining room and prison kitchen, the warden's residence (brick, 6 rooms and hall, one outhouse and store house), a shoemaker's shop (adobe with cellar), a carpenter's shop (wood 15'x20'), a blacksmith's shop (wood 14'x17'), a stone cutter's shop (wood, 15'x32'), two outhouses for general use, a bake oven (10'x12'), 360' of stone embankment in front of the prison, 330' of picket fence with 2 single gates and 1 double gate, 700' of board fence around the garden, all on 40 acres of land.

Denver, Colorado Territory Wagon Sales & Repair Ledger 1867-1870: An Annotated Index

ISBN 978-1-68224-040-3      $12.95 + $4.00 S&H

It appears that this merchant sold and repaired mostly Schuttler and Bain wagons that were brought in as far as they could by rail, most probably to the Cheyenne station, then driven to Denver by drayage companies. Among the items often repaired were yokes, rakes, tongues, boxes, bows, seatbacks and covers for the wagons. The book includes accounts of a more personal nature as well, such as clothing he had on hand, including a fine black suit, a heavy beaver overcoat and a pair of Buffalo overshoes. Among the personal items he had on hand on 1 Jan 1868, were a watch and chain, gold and silver specimens, field glasses, Indian trinkets, a photograph album, four mountain scenes, an 8 inch Colt revolver and a pocket Derringer. At some point, the book was given to most probably a daughter to use as a scrapbook of sorts, where she filled the first 30 or so pages with articles about homemaking, including a recipe for waterproof glue (adapted for Colorado). The book includes the annotated index of customer names, as well as examples from the scrapbook portion of the ledger.

Inventors in the Colorado Territory and their U.S. Patents, 1861-1876: An Annotated Index

ISBN 978-1-68224-022-9      $54.95 + $5.00 S&H

The Inventors in the Colorado Territory and their U.S. Patents, 1861-1876: An Annotated Index contains the names of inventors from the Colorado Territory who were issued patents between 1861 and 1876. A copy of their patent filing is included, along with an index of the names of the patent holders, the witnesses to the patent filing, and the lawyers who filed the application.

Understandably, many of the inventions pertained to advances in mining techniques, but not all. There were changes to medical equipment, a machine to make cutting gloves easier, military gear, agricultural machinery—even a new horse shoe.

Colorado's Territorial Masons An Annotated Index of the Proceedings of the Grand Lodge of Colorado, 1861-1876

ISBN 978-1-879579-85-9      $29.95 + $5.00 S&H

The Masons have a history in Colorado longer than the state or territory itself. The first Masonic lodges formed in the area were done so under dispensation from the Grand Lodges of Kansas and Nebraska until Colorado became a Territory in 1861 and formed its own Grand Lodge. Between the time Colorado became a territory in 1861 and a state in 1876, thirty-one Masonic lodges were formed with the help of more than 4,000 local men whose names are included in this index. The Proceedings of the Grand Lodge of Colorado often included news from Masons in other states, as well as the names of officers of the other Grand Lodges around the county. Their names are also included.

Boulder County, Colorado District Court Execution Docket, 1875-1885: An Annotated Index

ISBN 978-1-879579-94-1      $11.95 + $4.00 S&H

This index has been compiled from the Boulder County, Colorado District Court Execution Docket for the years 1875-1885. An execution docket is used by the court to instruct the sheriff to settle a judgment of the court. The parties are listed as judgment against (the losing party in the lawsuit) and judgment for (the winning party), rather than by plaintiff or defendant. This index also lists the date the execution order was given and the county in which the order was served.

Denver, Colorado Police Force Record, 1879-1903: An Annotated Index

ISBN 13 978-1-879579-81-1      $11.95 + $4.00 S&H

This index has been compiled from a register of Denver Police Department hires beginning in 1879 and ending in 1903. Officers were hired as patrolmen and officers, detectives, turnkeys (keepers of the keys at the jail), clerks, doctors and surgeons, jailers, bailiffs, herders and hostlers (who took care of the department's horses), drivers (who drove the ambulance and paddy wagon), operators (who took emergency calls once the city had telephones), and license inspectors. The Denver Police Department first hired a police matron in the 1880s and used special police, sometimes unpaid citizens, other times paid temps to keep the streets safe during city-wide celebrations. The register includes the following information: the officer's name, the rank hired, the star or badge number assigned, where the officer was born, the officer's age at hire, the officer's former occupation, whether married or single, the number of people in the officer's household, the officer's address at hire, dates of appointment and discharge (cause, if given), equipment assigned (fire key, police key, small buttons, large buttons, club, belt, nippers, regulation book, locker), and remarks.

Arapahoe County, Colorado Territory Criminal Court Index, 1862-1879: An Annotated Index

ISBN 978-1-879579-70-5      $11.95 + $4.00 S&H

The Arapahoe County Criminal Court Index 1862-1879 contains an alphabetical list of criminal cases filed by the name of the first defendant listed on the case. It gives the date of filing, the case number, the charge, the book and page number of subsequent hearings, and a brief description of the findings of those hearings. Often, the dispensation of the case will be given in the notes. The very early cases, listed as occurring "before 1862," have no actual dates on the case but occur in the order of cases before others prosecuted in late 1862. These early cases being prosecuted as The People of the United States of America vs. the defendant, and were probably in the jurisdiction of the US Marshals. Most of these cases are listed as Treason, etc., most likely cases of Southern sympathizers as the Civil War was underway. It appears that the courts had their hands full with notorious saloon-owning brothers Edward and John Chase, not to mention forgers and miners passing off counterfeit gold dust.
